WALLED GARDENS

Welcome to Lincolnshire's 'lost' gardens

Once described by President Franklin D Roosevelt as "A dream of Nirvana...almost too good to be true."

400 years of gardening have created a peaceful and settled atmosphere covering 12 acres, which are enhanced by the beautiful valley surrounding it.

The revival of these gardens has been ongoing since 2001 and now includes meadows, roses, long borders, vegetable, cutflower and cottage gardens. The tearoom offers light lunches, cream teas and homemade cakes and the shop stocks seasonal gardening gifts, plants and our own range of sweet pea seed.

We welcome groups to the gardens throughout the open season. Angela deals with all group and tour bookings and can tailor your visit to suit you. Easy to get to, just off the A1 in the heart of England. We look forward to sharing our gardens with you.
